

based on active

elements (transistors/op-amps)

considering

non-ideal component behaviour develop hierarchical models

of more complicated

circuits

transistor-based

circuits, feedback

and stability, and

apply these to attain design

objectives